Acknowledgement

Mornington Peninsula Shire acknowledges the Bunurong people, who have been the custodians of this land for many thousands of years; and pays respect to their Elders past and present. We acknowledge that the land on which we meet is the place of age-old ceremonies, celebrations, initiation, and renewal; and that the Bunurong people's living culture continues to have a unique role in the life of this region.

I am going to Mornington Peninsula
Regional Gallery.

This is a large gallery that shows artwork.

I might see:

- paintings
- drawings
- prints
- sculptures. Sculptures may be made out of stone, wood, metal or clay.

I can move around the gallery and look at the artwork.

Each piece of artwork will have information nearby explaining things about it.

Artist: Vera Möller

There are staff at the gallery to help visitors.

Staff might be at the reception desk or they might be walking around the gallery.

I might ask a staff member for information on the artwork.

Entry to the gallery is usually free.

To see if I need to buy a ticket, I can visit the gallery's website.

My support person can help me buy my ticket.

The gallery has artist talks.

An artist talk is when the person who makes art talks about their art to other people.

The artist might explain how they made their art and why they do it.

The artist shares information and answers questions about their work.

The gallery has workshops.

Workshops are a great way to learn how to make something new.

I will need to buy a ticket for a workshop.

I can visit the gallery's website to buy a ticket.

My support person can help me buy my ticket.

The gallery has a gift shop.

The gift shop sells catalogues, artist books, cards and nice things for the home.

There are toilets inside the gallery foyer.
Staff can show me where they are.

Artist: Michael Cook

Artwork can be easily damaged or broken.

It is important to not touch the artwork.

This is because oils from my hands can damage the artwork.

There is no food or drink allowed in the gallery.

Visitors sometimes like to take photos of the artwork.

If I want to take a picture, I must make sure the flash on my phone or camera is turned off.

The gallery can sometimes be a little noisy.

To help with the noise, I might:

- visit during a quiet time after 2pm in the afternoon
- bring my headphones or earbuds
- ask gallery staff if there is a quiet place inside the gallery for me to relax.

I can also tell gallery staff that I want to go outside for a break.

Gallery staff will let me back inside the gallery when I have finished my break.

Mornington Peninsula Regional Gallery is a very interesting place to visit.
